Infrared Certified Training (16 Hours CE)

The demand for energy audits and home inspection related thermal imaging is increasing. Many inspectors are reporting back to us that they are surprised at the new business that their infrared camera has generated. Not only from the normal customers, but also from areas outside the real estate market, such as contractors, insurance companies, banks, and relocation companies. The number of students taking infrared classes is rising as well. This next year, we predict a huge wave of inspectors will be hitting the market place to satisfy the rising demand for thermal imaging. This extra income will help off set the slow housing market for many.

NOTE: We will be having a 2 day training class in Dallas TX on January 24-25, 2009 (TREC approved for 16 hrs CE)... Location information will be posted soon on our web site calendar page. This will be part of a larger event in conjunction with the InterNACHI success seminar coming to Dallas on January 23

NOTE: We have been contacted by a large inspector school in Canada and will start teaching our IR classes in Canada, on a regular basis soon.

Watch our calendar page for more updates (our first class for this location should be in January)

NOTE: Our next teleconference course will be November 29-30, 2008. Please register in advance. See our web page link below.
